The Sheltoewe Trace National Recreation Trail (Trail #100) traverses the entire length of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Part of the Sheltoewe Trace passes through the Red River Gorge. The trail is marked by a diamond-shaped blaze or a turtle symbol.

WARNING

Dangerous Cliffs

The cliffines of the Red River Gorge are beautiful, but they are also dangerous. Please be careful.

Natural Bridge State Resort Park, adjacent to Red River Gorge Geological Area, is administered by Kentucky Dept. of Parks. It offers lodge rooms, cabins, dining facilities, and two developed campgrounds. For more information, call the park at (606) 663-2214, or (800) 255-PARK (7275)

Clifty Wilderness
 Closed to all motorized vehicles and mountain bikes.

A pass is required for parking overnight in the Gorge and Indian Creek Area (between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.). Passes are available in local stores and at the District Office in Stanton.

Trails within the Red River Gorge have been designated National Recreation Trails. These trails are open to hiking only. Mountain bikes and all motorized vehicles are prohibited on trails in the Red River Gorge. Horses are permitted on designated trails.

Nada Tunnel. An interesting way to enter the Red River Gorge is through the 900-foot Nada Tunnel, located along KY 77. This tunnel, open to one-lane traffic only, was built for use by a logging railroad during the early 1900's.

Hiking Trails. Many arches in the Gorge can be found or viewed from the 60 miles of hiking trails. One of the best known and most accessible arches is Sky Bridge, 75 feet long and 23 feet high.

Clifty Wilderness. Within the Gorge is Clifty Wilderness, a rugged and undeveloped area designated as wilderness by Congress in 1985. This 12,646-acre area features arches, rock shelters, and towering cliffs encircling steep, forested slopes and narrow stream valleys.

Natural Stone Arches. The number, size, and variety of natural stone arches in the Gorge contribute to its uniqueness. Sculpted by 70 million years of wind and water, the Gorge offers spectacular views of heavily forested slopes, ridges, and cliffs that provide a stunning backdrop for more than 100 natural arches.

Note: Visitors are required to purchase a pass for parking overnight in the Gorge and Indian Creek area (between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.). Passes are available from local stores and at the District Office in Stanton.

Koomer Ridge Campground is a U.S. Fee Area with trailer/tent spaces, vault toilets, fire grills, lantern posts, drinking water, picnic tables, and an amphitheater. Sites are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Tent sites remain open year round, although no water is available during the off season. Koomer Ridge is in full operation from mid-April through the end of October.

The Red River, Kentucky's first National Wild and Scenic River, the Red River, offers the canoeist a memorable trip.

Archaeology. Archaeological studies are providing insight into the lives of prehistoric people who lived in the Gorge. These Native Americans left no written records, but archaeological sites scattered throughout the Gorge provide many clues about how they lived.

In later times, history records that the area was occupied by the Shawnee and other tribes, and adventurers such as Christopher Gist, Dr. Thomas Walker, and Daniel Boone preceded settlement by colonial Europeans moving west. Campsites, old buildings, and historic farmsteads still tell their stories.

These fragile archaeological resources are unmistakable evidence of earlier lives - a common inheritance from past generations with whom we have shared this land. Once destroyed they are gone forever. To preserve these sites:

- Do not disturb rock shelters.
- Do not collect or dig for artifacts.

All artifacts and cultural resources are protected by state and federal law. Report looting or vandalism to the Stanton District Office.

- Obey all signs and encourage others to do the same.
- Do not disturb the soil, dig, or move rocks.

- Avoid camping near the edge of cliffs. You may be closer to the edge than you realize.
- Plan to arrive at your destination before dark.
- Alcohol and cliffs don't mix! If you drink, avoid getting close to cliffs.
- Foot travel after dark is not safe. If you must travel after dark, stay in familiar areas and use a flashlight.
- Watch your footing when walking near cliffs. Trees and bushes can't be trusted to hold you if you slip.
- Watch your children carefully, and keep them close to you at all times. Don't let them run.

CLIFFLINE SAFETY

The clifflines of the Red River Gorge are beautiful, but they are also dangerous. Every year, visitors are injured or killed by a fall from a cliff.
